

Two Projects, One Mission

Behavioral Health Interpreting

Increase the number and diversity of Qualified Mental Health Interpreters (QMHI) through:

- Webinars and online courses on mental health interpreting, interpreting for those in addiction and recovery programs, and interpreting for those who have experienced domestic or sexual violence.
- Expanded Mental Health Interpreter Training Institute internship placements.
- Communities of practice.

Graduation to Certification

Tapping the Power of Not Yet

This program, based on the science of how learning works, is for recent graduates who are candidates for RID certification.

Components include pre and post assessments, intensive learning with mentors, authentic practice opportunities, connections with diverse communities, and a paid supervised internship.

With a growth mindset, we aim to transform interpreter education. We invite participants, mentors, and supervisors to join us in this mission.
